ROMANCE OF A CANAL

Nicaragua Canal First Talked Of 300 Years Ago.

In 1825 the United States First Moved in It.

THE BILL WILL PASS

So Mr. Geary Thinks, and Canal Will be Done in 1903.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 .- [Special.] -"It would be an imposition on the public to give a history of such an old affair," said Hon. T. J. Geary of California in reply to questions on the Nicaragua canal. and the senate, you know, has always been more favorable to it. The senate is the their stories, find there is a difference. body that takes high ground for national dignity, and so there will be no trouble there. The only point that need be impressed on the public mind just now is that this hill provides for a complete reorgapitzation, and Senator Morgan approves it in place of his own. It makes the capital scock of the canal company $83,000,000, and of this $1,000,000 flat are to go to aragua and Costa Rica are to take $7,500,-000, and this leaves $70,000,000, which the United States is to take. The nation, mind you, is to be virtually stockholder and control the canal, as there would be neither common sense nor patriotism in any other plan. I am satisfied, I say, that congress will pass the bill because I know that common sense rules this body in the long run, and well informed Americans do not want to fly in the face of Providence and go squarely against the leadings of reason and patriotism." Success of the Nicaragua Canal.

"What about the announcement that the promoters have given up hope here and gone to England?"

It is what your sort of men would call a bluff. Perhaps it is an attempt to revive interest. Just now we are in a fever to get away from here, having got over most of our racket on the tariff, and there is the usual talk in the country that this congress has done nothing. Very foolish talk, too, as no congress for many years has done so much work or such good work as this, but that is neither here nor there, except that the public mind is in a condition unfavorable to reasoning on this subject. Four months from now people will have had time to realize how much good work has been done, and the members will not be in such a fever, and then we shall put the bill through as a matter of course. The eneral will be in successful operation a canal across the isthmus. Every century after that it was renewed. In 1835 the United States, led by Henry Clay, began good solld history too.

A Bunko Game. His declaration that this house has done In a free talk on the subject Judge Terry of Arl;ansas said: "When the caucus de cides, we must give way, and of course we knew when we were in our sober senses that we should have to yield pretty much | Master Plumbers Think it a Good Think everything to the senate. Just the same a good many of us think that the senate worked a bunko game on us in those tie votes. Just notice how it came out. They managed to gain one Republican and lose just enough Democrats to make it a tie on dent, Matthew J. Morgau, St. Louis; vice the amendments offered, which are only preliminary, but when they came to the really important vote on referring it back ther did not even call for the yeas and nays. It looks like an attempt to scare

And there is where history repeats itself," said another western member. "It's a sort of historical habit in the senate to have the votes in such things. Some folks have forgotten that our much praised Polk-Walker tariff of 1846 ran against a tie vote in the senate and only became a law by the deciding vote of Vice President George M. Dallas. Yet that was the tariff we Democrats have been swearing by and glorifying over ever since. So there is no call to take on about a tie vote so long as we get the bill." This philosophical spirit grew in the house just as the wrath of the senate declined, and it was pleasant to observe that the same members who were one week denouncing the senate bill as the meanest | different contests. embodiment of perfidy were the next week sending out documents by the thousand to prove that it was a really wonderful im. have figured the reduction from that bill as low as 12 and as high as 28 per cent, which is a delightful variation, as it gives according to his wish to approve or denounce his representative for consenting to the bill. One amusing feature of the quarrel in the party was that several members who wrote platforms and forwarded them to their district conventions had the same returned with a notice that said convention had indersed the president and inferentially at least condemned the senate

The President's Plain Speech. During all the racket between the senato and house the president continued to talk with his usual vigor and far more than his usual freedom. He made no se-cret of the fact that he was incensed at several senators, particularly with those who had charged him with double dealing and had come so near proving it. Any spe who succeeded in getting to him could get an opinion, and one very emphatically expressed. Every day, however, the members grew wilder to get away, and all their thoughts were fixed on the approaching elections. All eyes are turned first, of course, to Alabama, which starts the game early with her state elections and with things in a curiously critical condition. All her representatives but two went home early, and the reports they sent back were anything but eucouraging. The Populists only have to gain three in the state senate | Sunday afternoon.

and four in the house to have the legislature, and one big county could make the change. The legislature counts the vote for governor, and so with the loss of the closest county in the state the tall would go with the hide, Oates with Morgan, and we should have another Populist governor and senator, and both, according to all accounts, of the most cantankerously aggres-Mive sort.
